

Welcome in the SCI E-zine!

The fifth issue of the SCI E-zine has experienced some delay due to internet connection problems and busy times at the International Secretariat, caused by the famous 1st of June deadline for Youth in Action applications (let's keep our fingers crossed..). We want to apologize for keeping you waiting this long...However, it has been worth it because the good news is that this issue is loaded with interesting articles and news-updates from all over the (SCI-)world! So let's not keep you waiting even longer... Enjoy reading!

Good News from the Tent of Nations

The demolition orders that were issued by the Israeli Civil Administration against nine structures on the land of the Nassar family in West Bank have been frozen for sixty days. This is great news and a victory for the Tent of Nations and for peace and justice! Read more

Hostel in Novi Sad for SCI Volunteers

Having work camps starting soon, VCV-SCI Serbia has worked on a way to offer volunteers a budget sleepover in Novi Sad in order to spend some additional time in our city, meet some of us and enjoy Novi Sad. Read more

Key Travel and SCI

Since the beginning of 2010 the International Secretariat has effectively set up a cooperation with Key Travel. This travel agency will provide the IS and all SCI branches, activists and work camp volunteers with their travel services. Both Key Travel and SCI are benefitting from this. SCI gets 2 to 3 euros on every flight that is booked by SCI people, using the following link: http://keytravel.com/SCI_BE/ . It is an interesting option for all branches and working groups because by booking with Key Travel you help to build up a Travel Fund within SCI that can be used by SCI-activists and staff to travel to meetings, seminars and other activities. A visit to Mission: Wolf

Have you ever awakened to the sound of fifty wolves, all howling in unison? I hadn't, either, until I stayed overnight at Mission: Wolf, one of SCI-IVS oldest volunteer projects. Read more

SCI 90 years: latest news:

- Inauguration of the Exhibition in La Chaux-de-Fonds. Read more

- Ceresole Walking Tour. Read more

These pictures were sent to the International Secretariat by an SCI activist from the sixties. His name is Roger Gwynn and he volunteered in Bangladesh in 1965. On the final picture you see Roger himself, 45 years ago...We met Roger on Facebook, so why don't you join us on facebook as well? It is a wonderful way to meet SCI friends from all over the world and from different periods. And another thing...If you have pictures to share with us too, then don't hesitate in contacting the IS by sending an email to programmes@sciint.org or leave a message on the Service Civil International Facebook-page.

Fair Trade Day

Saturday, May 8th, SCI Hungary and other organisations joined to celebrate International Fair Trade Day. The Fair Trade Foundation is a non-profit organisation that promotes sustainable development and justice by transforming trading structures and practices in favour of the poor and disadvantaged. SCI Malaysia I: work for visual impaired

SCI Kuala Lumpur & Penang had a joint workcamp meeting at Taman Harapan, Temerloh on the 1st and 2nd May 2010. It took the Penang team an eight hours long ride to get there. Read more

SCI Malaysia II: Domestic work at local school

SCI Malaysia (Penang) had another activity at the Saint Nicholas home on the 17th of April 2010. The half day activity was about carrying out some domestic work at the school's deposit room as requested by the school. Read more

YOUROPE FOR RIGHTS: Active citizenship in Europe between human rights and immigration policies

The European civil society has been recently marked by double-sided phenomena. On the one side increasing discriminating policies against immigrants at state level, aimed at increasing control of migration flows and state borders, and on the other side the worrying growth of racism and xenophobia at grassroots level in many European countries.
